PubMed@

Thursday, January 18, 2007

8:30am to 5:00pm

This full-day class is designed to teach students how to use PubMed, which includes MEDLINE citations. The class also includes an overview of the Medical Subject

Headings (MeSH) and its importance as a tool to both searchers and indexers. Class attendees are awarded 7.5 MLA continuing education credits.

TOXNET®

Friday, January 19, 2007
9:00am to 4:00pm

This full-day class is designed to convey the basics of searching the NLM's TOXNET, a Web-based system of databases in the areas of toxicology, environmental health, and related subjects. Students learn the content and structure of files covering toxicology data, toxicology literature, toxic releases, and chemical searching and nomenclature. Among the databases highlighted will be TOXLINE, the Hazardous Substances Data Bank, the Integrated Risk Information System, the Toxic Release Inventory, and ChemIDplus. Class attendees are awarded 6 MLA continuing education credits.

NLM Training Registration - <http://nnlm.gov/ntcc/request.html>
All the training sessions are free and open to anyone.

What is Bookshelf?

Bookshelf is a collection of approximately 60 electronic biomedical books accessible in PubMed that can be searched directly using any search term or phrase, or via already-linked words and MeSH terms in PubMed abstracts. When viewing an abstract, select the "Books" link from the "Links" drop-down menu to the right of the citation to see phrases within the abstract that are hyperlinked to book sections. Bookshelf is free there are no access restrictions.
